CATCHING AN ACTIVE THIEF. ROBBING A TUG-BOAT AND GIVING THE JEPSEY CITY POLICE MUCH TROUBLE,

CITY POLICE MUCH TROUBLE.

The cabin of the tug-boat Johnson Brothers, lying at the foot of Morris-st., Jersey City, was entered at 2 m. yesterday by two burglars. Seymour Barringer, who was asieep in the cabin, was awakened by their movements, and springing up, he clinched one of the men. While the two were senfling, the other burglar struck Borringer in the head with a heavy chisel, laying his skull bare. The thieves fled when Barringer fell to the floor with a groan.

As soon as the injured man revived, he went to the First Police Precinct Station in Gregory-st., where his wound was dressed by City Physician Van Sanu. He stated that the burglars were William Sanu. He stated that the burglars were William Harney, alias "Belch," and Joseph Leonard. Harney was the man, he said, who cut his head open with the chisel. He was teld to appear this morning and have warrants issued for the arrest of the two men.

with the chisel. He was told to appear this morning and have warrants issued for the arrest of the two men.

Captain William Potts, of the ting-boat, made a charge against the two men yesterdry, and a squad of police was detailed to arrest them. Before the officers left the station-house, Harney and Leonard imaped into the carriage of Dr. Kierthen, which was standing in Essex-st., and drove off at a rapid rate. The alarm was given, and the vehicle being closely pursued, the two men jumped out and fled in opposite directions. The police, under the command of Captain Farrier, begin a search of the lower portion of the city. Detective Dalton was walking through Morris-st, when he met Harney, who took to his heels. After a chase, the officer cornered Harney on the bank of the Morris Canal basin, but he imaged into the water and swam to the other side, where he hid in a bricked passage-way through which a wire rope passed which is used in handling boats. The detective discovered his hiding-place and fired his revolver once at Harney as he was crawling out of the other end of the passage. The bullet struck Harney in the shoulder, making a slight flesh wound. The officer succeeded in carching the ruffian, who after a determined resistance was forced to submit. Harney, who is only twenty-four years of age, is a bad man. Two months are he stabbed James and John Keyes, two boatmen, in a fight in a liquor-store. Fearing he had killed one, if not both of them, he stole a boat and rowed to the Battery in this city and escaped arrest. After the two men recovered, he returned home, gave boil to await trial, and subsequently compromised the case in some manner; at least his two victims refused to appear against him.

AN OVER-ZEALOUS OFFICER REBUKED.

Edmund C. Reed, of No. 245 West Thirty-eighthet, was walking along a neighboring street Saturday night, with Mary Addler, of No. 143 West Thirty-second-st., on his arm, when Officer Gamble, of the I wenty-ninth Precinct, who was in critical's ciothes, came up and took Miss Addler in custody, stating that she was a woman of bad repute. Mr. Reed told the officer that he had no business to interfere with the woman wile she was under his protection, but the officer insisted upon it that he knew his business best. Mr. Reed followed them to the Station House, when, upon the officer's statement that Mr. Reed had interfered with him in the discharge of his duty, the sergeant locked him up.

Officer Gamble took Mr. Reed and Miss Addler before Justice Smith at the Jefferson Market Police Cent vesterday morning, when the Justice discharged them both, and severely reprimanded the officer for his conduct, telling him that he had no authority whatever to arrest the two persons, and that Mr. Reed had a right to walk with whomever he pleased in the public streets. The officer said that he showed his badge to Mr. Reed, when the latter questioned his authority, and moreover stated that he had seen the woman, before she was in Reed's company, speaking to men in the street. It is said that Mr. Reed will begin a suit against the officer and sergeant for false arrest and imprisonment. AN OVER-ZEALOUS OFFICER REBUKED. CHARGED WITH ROBBING A BANK.

CHARGED WITH ROBBING A BANK.

George Carson, alias Heywood, who is charged with compleity in the robbery of the savings bank at Middletown, Conn., some time ago, was before Justice Smith at the Jefferson Market Police Court yest-relay morning, having been rearrested on a "bail piece." Carson, it appears, was arrested early last week by Detectives Adams and Rogers, of the Central Office, on a telegraphic dispatch from the authorities at Middletown, who stated that requisition papers were in preparation for the return of Carson to that place. Carson was kept in custody until Saturday when Justice Smith discharged him, stating that Middletown was only three or four hours' ride from New-York, and that ample time had been allowed for the preparation of the requisition. After Carson left the court-room he was rearrested by the detectives, who brought him before Justice Smith vesterday and asked his communant on a bail piece. It seems that several mouths ago Carson had been held for petty larceny, when a Mr. Moffat gave bail in $300 for his appearance at the Special Sessions. He forfeited his bail, and his last arreat was upon his surrender by Mr. Moffat, Justice Smith remanded the alleged bank robber to the custody of the police. The requisition papers are expected te-day.

man came to his death by drowning. There were no facts to enable the jury to form an opinion whether the drowning was accidental or otherwise. Officer Romer, who was on duty at the Stapleton landing when the body was found, said to a Tantium reporter vesterday that in his opinion the body had not been in the water more than a few hours. There was no mark of violence upon it, he said; the face and hands were as smooth as in life. The body was found about half a naite below the ferry landing, and not far from where ocean steamships anchor. The hat was found in the water, not fifty yards from the body, indicating that the man had been drowned not far from the spot where the body was recovered. Officer Romer said he thought the man had fallen from a steamer or possibly from a ferry-boat.

STEALING AT A CHURCH FAIR.

STEALING AT A CHURCH FAIR.

John O'Neil, of No. 231 Centre-st., was taken before Justice Smith at the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday by Officer Moran of the Engists Precinct, charged with stealing a gold watch valued at $150 from the St. Alphonsus Church Fair, on South Fifth-ave. It appears that last Saturday night O'Neil, in company with three other young men, went to a table at the fair which was in charge of Mrs. Donoho, wife of Constantine Donoho, Assemblyman-elect, and asked to look at the watch which had been presented to the fair and in which thirty-nine chances had already been sold. The watch and case in which it was kept were handed to O'Neil, and in a few moments the case tightly clasped was handed back to Mrs. Donoho, Suppicion flasning through the mind of another lady at the table that there was something wrong, the case was opened, but the watch had disappeared. O'Neil's companions were also arrested, but were discharged for lack of evidence. Justice Smith held O'Neil in $500 bail to answer.

ATTACKED BY RUFFIANS.

ATTACKED BY RUFFIANS.

Thomas Clancey, of Sixteenth-st., was attacked by a gang of ruffians near his house at 1 a. m. yesterday, and was knocked down and badly beaten. One of the ruffians kicked the prostrate man in the side with his heavy boots. Claucey regained his feet and started to run, but was felied by a murderous blow from a large slangshot. The blow cut his head open, making a freghtful wound. The injured man shouted "Police!" and "Murder!" and his assailants took to their heels. Clancey walked to the station-house in Grove-st, and asked for assistance. His face and clothing were covered with blood. His face and clothing were covered with blood, which ran from the wounds on his head. City Physician Morris was called and dressed Clancey's wounds. Captain Edmondson, of the Second Police Precinct, was searching for Clancey's assailants last evening, with little chance of finding them.

A THEATRICAL COMPANY BROKEN UP. The "Tile Club"-not the artists' club-was one o The "Tile Club"—not the artists' club—was one of the numerous theatrical combinations which started from this city early in the season. The company gave a light entertainment of music and comedy. It disbanded Saturday night at the close of an en-gagement at Hooley's Theatre, in Chicago. The managers were Messis, Marble and Morton. The season has been very unsuccessful, and as is usual in such cases, the managers are in debt to the com-pany. This was the combination of which the miss-ing young singer, Angelo Torriani, jr., was formerly a member.

THE LOSS OF THE MILDRED. Seaver & Co., the agents of the British steamer Mildred, which foundered in the Atlantic, have seceived no intelligence about the disaster. She sailed September 28 from this city, with a crew of twenty-four men and no passengers. She took out 64,000 bu-hels of wheat, valued at about $75,000, which was insured. She was a brightness vessel in every respect. Mr. Seaver was unable to give any idea of what caused her loss.

HOPEFUL FOR IRELAND.

MEETING OF MEMBERS OF THE IRISH LAND LEAGUE.

MERTING OF MEMBERS OF THE IRISH LAND LEAGUE.

A meeting in the interests of the Irish Land League was held yesterday at Academy Hall, at Third-ave, and Twenty-third-st. Addresses were made by Dr. William B. Wallace, the president of the Irish Land League in this city, and others, and an informal statement was made respecting the progress of the Lovement in the several wards. All the speakers took a most honeful view of the latest phase of the land question in Ireland.

Dr. Wallace said that if the sigus of the times meant saything they indicated the approach of Ireland's deliverance. The cause was well championed and was being well directed, in proof of which was the wonderful restraint the people had placed upon themselves in the West of Ireland, where they were goaded to desperation by the landlords and an army. "Boycotting" was the word, and would prove as effective a method as the non-intercourse system adopted by this country in the early days of the Republic to defeat Engish oppression. They would let the landlord live among them, but he would be as one accursed. After two or three years of such a system the landlords would be most anxious to have the question between landlord and tenant settled. To e best thing England could do would be to make a friend of Ireland; but judging by what she had done in the past she would not do that. The movement was doing well in this country. People who at first opposed the cause were now in sympathy with it. The organizations in the several wards in this city were active, some of them numbering from 200 to 500 members, and branches were being formed. Williamsburg, Hunter's Point, in New-Jersey, and at points on the Hudson River and up the Sound. Women's societies were also being formed.

Miemael Breslin said that the Land League movement was the best ever set on foot, as all Irishmen could agree on the land question. The other question could be left to the inture. It was a contest between races—the Irish against the English on Irish soil. He himself regarded the present day and Von Asbern was removed to the county jail.

The self-accusing murderer was taken into custedy and Chief of Police Smith was summoned. In answer to his questions Von Osbern said he had quarrelled with his wife early in the evening and had struck her. He was very angry but did not intend to kill her. A messenger was sent to County Physician Couverse and Coroner Parslow. The body of Mrs. Von Osbern was taken to the Morgae yesterday and Von Asbern was removed to the county juit.

"I did not intend to hurt my wife," said Von Osbern to a reporter of The Thibune yesterday, "when I struck her. She had been drinking heavily for three weeks, and we had frequent quarrels. We had both been drinking last night and we had a bitter quarrel. I struck her twice across the month, once in the eye and once on the nose. I wanted her to behave herself, but I did not want to hurt her at all. I am thirty-four years old and my wife was about the same age. I came from Germany when I was a child, and was married nine years ago. I have three children, all boys. All I can say about my wife's death is that I did not intend to kill her."

The cidest boy told the Chief of Police that Von Osbern strack his wife several times, and then pushed her from him. She fell to the floor, and he tien dragged her into the bed-room by her hair. After the poor woman crept into bed or was thrown there by her husband, he held her with one hand and struck her in the face with the other several times.

WOUNDS CONSIDERED MORTAL.

Seventeen Italian laborers who had worked on the Case Cod Canal, and who recently found employment on a railroad not far from this city, were drunking in a liquor ster at No. 49 Mulberry-st. Saturday night. The foreman of the gang, Michael Barone, was of the company, and when a dispute sprang upabout some work, the distribution of which, some of the men claimed, had not been fairly made, he took part with much warmth. The war of words grew very acrimonions and at last Barone declared in a rage that he would discharge one or two of the men. At this the members of the entire band rebelled, and declared that if he did they would all quit work together.

The strife grew bosterous, and blows were exchanged between Barone and Vincenzo Staglia, one of the laborers. Barone suddenly pulled a large sheath-knife and buried it deed in Staglia's chest. The wounded man fell, bleeding profusely; his courrades scattered, and Barone, seeing what he had done, fled. Staglia was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, where his wounds were considered mortal. The coroner was called and endeavored to take the man's ante-mortem statement, but he was too weak. Staglia went also by the name of Joseph Carlo. He is eighteen years old, and fine looking. Staglia died at the St. Vincent's Hospital yesterday.

He sat still and Maloney lifted the revolver for a second shot. Before the weapon was fully raised, however, Masson's two sons who had aprung from their chairs, had seized him and pinned him to the lounge. The weapon was wrenched from bis hand.

Masson demanded the reason for his visitor's murderous act and Maloney replied to the effect that he had fired at random. Then Masson's two sons led the unpleasant visitor to the door and that he had fired at random. Then Masson's two sons led the unpleasant visitor to the door and thrust him into the street, retaining the revolver. An hour afterward the Massons appeared at police headquarters and informed Police Justice Ricord of the occurrence, and a warrant was issued for Maloney's arrest. Maloney served twenty years in the Regular Army and is a bachelor. There was no known motive for his act, as Masson had proved a friend to him recently when he was sick. Masson was formerly on the police force. In the fall of 1876 his brother was stabbed to death in a political light in Hamburg-place, and a man named George Steckert is at present serving a term of ten years in State Prison for committing the doed.
